

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

Disclosed are an image recording/reproducing apparatus and a transmitting method which are user-friendly when transmitting image data recorded on a medium to an external device. Reproduction path information for transmitting image data edited by a user is recorded on the record medium. When transmitting, reproduction path information read from the recording medium is selected, the image data is reproduced according to the reproduction path information, and the reproduced data is transmitted to the external device. The reproduction path information includes transmitting event information such as the date and time of transmission, destination information, and information related to the signal format of the image data to be transmitted.

60072460 v1